Hotels

[Hotel Diplomat, CBBA]

[Hotel La Glorieta, Sucre]

This section of Instant Bolivia contains lists of hotels in the following cities, towns, and regions of Bolivia:

Amazonas and Beni Cochabamba Lake Titicaca Area La Paz Oruro Potosí Santa Cruz Sucre Tarija Tupiza Uyuni Yungas

Amazonas is the Oriente or eastern lowland areas of Bolivia and includes the Departments of Pando, Beni, and the Chiquitanía area of Santa Cruz. Several rural hotels are listed under their nearest major cities such as Cochabamba, La Paz, or Santa Cruz.

Types of Accommodations

Surprisingly, the majority of lodgings in Bolivia tend to be of the budget variety. This is primarily because many Bolivians prefer and can only afford this class of accommodation. Also, until recently, the numbers of international tourists to Bolivia had been so modest that there was not much demand for more elaborate lodgings. Thankfully the situation has changed. Now visitors have a wide range of lodging choices ranging from luxurious, to standard, to budget, to basic and below.

Titles of Establishments

The different titles used to denote various types of lodgings usually refer to the size, type, and, to some degree, the overall quality of the property. The term "hotel" sets the standard yet this title is sometimes bestowed on very humble properties. Rarely will a lodging other than a hotel receive a rating of three stars or more.

The Bolivia Hotel and Restaurant Association ranks lodging establishments from five to zero stars. Five stars is considered luxurious. In the same category as hotels are Apart Hotels and Suites Hotels. These properties invariably provide apartment or suite like accommodations. Usually smaller than a hotel is a hostal or hostel. Then come residencias, alojamientos and pensiones, each progressively smaller and more humble in nature.

In a standard hotel of three stars or more, a traveler can expect a modern, comfortable room with private bath, telephone and cable television. Hot water will be provided in most rooms via a calefón, or hot water tank. Heating or air conditioning is provided centrally or by portable units. And guests should expect a complimentary, American buffet breakfast served in the hotel's dining room. This is contrasted with the services provided in much more humble hostals where rooms tend to be small and Spartan with a shared bath, the provision of lukewarm water is via electric coil showers, and there is rarely any heating or air conditioning. Breakfast in these establishments is usually continental style or may be purchased separately by the guest.

Making Hotel Reservations

For the best rates, usually contacting the hotel directly by telephone is the best strategy. When you call the hotel, ask to speak to a clerk who knows English and then bargain for a rate that is equal to or better than the one listed in this directory. Make sure you ask for an e-mail or FAX confirmation. (You may want to obtain a telephone calling card with discount rates to Bolivia before making your reservation. Cards with rates as low as $.05 USD cents are available. Check out the Enjoy Prepaid Cards by Nobel Calling Cards at www.nobel.com.

Alternatively, if the hotel already offers a great rate online, you can send an e-mail message and request the rate and a confirmation. Ditto for contacting the hotel via FAX.

A third approach is to use the hotel's Web page. If the price is acceptable, this will work since almost all hotels do not require clients to guarantee the reservation with a credit card. Finally, consider using a hotel consolidator's Web site. Based on our observation Contact Bolivia (www.boliviacontact.com) and Expedia.Com offer reasonable prices. Sometimes selection is limited however.

Useful Hotel Vocabulary

Some useful Bolivian terms associated with hotels include:

Acensor	Elevator	Galería	Shops
Baño Privado	Private Bathroom	Gradas	Stairs
Caja de Seguridad	Safe	Guardaequipaje	Luggage Storage
Calefacción	Heating	Habitación	Room

Doble	Double Room	Simple	Single Room
Estacionamento	Parking	Tarifas	Rates

Amazonas and Beni

For the purposes of this directory, Amazonas refers to the tropical areas of Bolivia consisting of the Amazon River basin and its tributaries. This region extends along the northern and eastern borders of Bolivia, from the Andes to the Chaco. The Beni is located between the tropical Amazonas and the Andes valley areas (e.g., Yungas and Cochabamba). It consists primarily of expansive savannas, considered to be the pampas of Bolivia.

The hotel boasts two nice restaurants, the Kota Kauhaña serves national and international dishes and the Terrazas Grill for mid-day meals outdoors. $25-$33 USD single, $43-$48 USD double.

La Cúpula Rating [3] – Value in budget class

Final Calle Michel Pérez 1-3, Copacabana

Telephone and FAX 591-2-862-2029

E-mail: Bolivia@hotelcupula.com, Web: www.hotelcupula.com

Description: A quirky little hotel atop a high hill on the edge of Copacabana. Predictably, the Cúpula has the best views of any hotel in the area. Most rooms are comfortable but be attentive to selection. Upon check in, ask for the tarifario, which diagrams all rooms along with corresponding prices. A few rooms are very small or impractically shaped. The hotel has a fine international restaurant with superior dishes and fair prices (approximately $5.00 for an entrée). The provision of hot water is via solar panels. Breakfast is not included in the room rate. An American breakfast will cost approximately $2.50 USD. $10-$20 USD single, $20-$32 USD double, and $28-$40 USD triple.

La Paz

Hotels in the city center are convenient to restaurants and most tourist attractions. Those in the partially residential Sopocachi district tend to be a bit quieter. Sopocachi has some of the nicest eateries in La Paz. The Zona Sur neighborhoods such as Calacoto and San Miguel are nearly 1000 feet lower than the city center. This means that the area is somewhat warmer and the altitude slightly less taxing than in La Paz proper.

An important consideration in La Paz is the provision of hot water and heating. Most of the year, days are cool and nights are cold at this altitude. Travelers, including backpackers may want to splurge a bit on a hotel to insure that they have a sanctuary against the cold and high altitude. Hotels with ratings of [3] or higher have heating (at least portable units) and provide hot water from heated tanks.

Alcalá Hotel Rating [4] – Value for apart hotel

Victor Sanjinés #2662, Plaza España, Alto Sopocachi

Tel. 591-2-241-2336, FAX 591-2-241-1121

E-mail: alcalapt@zuper.net. Web: Not Available.

Description: A nice find on the Plaza España. The Alcalá Apart Hotel is about 10 years old and has 18 spacious and well-furnished apartments at very reasonable prices. A continental breakfast is served in the adjoining restaurant, La Castellana, where lunch and dinner are also available. $50 USD single, $60 USD double.

Calacoto Rating [3] – Value in tourist class

Calle 13 #8009 – Esquina Sánchez Bustamante, Calacoto, Zona Sur

Tel. 591-2-241-2524, FAX 591-2-278-9334

E-mail: info@hotel-calacoto-bolivia.com, Web: www.hotel-calacoto-bolivia.com

Description: Standard hotel with regular rooms, suites, and apartments. American breakfast included. Nice garden area. Complimentary airport transportation. $38 USD double room, $40 USD one bedroom apartment, and $45 USD two-bedroom apartment.
